

Nizoral Study Added to Resource Library

Posted by : admin on Oct 09, 2007 - 08:06 AM

Site Updates

Interesting study describing Nizoral's effect on hair loss treatment We have just added a new study to the HairlossTalk Resource Library, on the effects of the active ingredient in Nizoral Shampoo on the treatment of hair loss. Those of you using Nizoral to help control your scalp condition are invited to view the much spoken of study regarding Ketokonazole, the active ingredient in Nizoral...This study was done to determine the effect of Ketokonazole on hair loss, and how the inflammation it controls can affect hair loss when appropriately kept in cheque. It's a very interesting study and you may be surprised exactly how effective this shampoo is at assisting in the hair loss fight. Make sure it's a part of your regimen if you are experiencing any itching, flaking or redness.

To view the study, please visit the Hair Loss Studies section.

Discuss Nizoral with others in our Discussion Forums.

HLT